

Interfaith Strategy for Advocacy and Action in the Community (ISAAC) Seeks Executive Director.

ISAAC is an interfaith organizing network of congregations and strategic partners working together to build a more just community in Kalamazoo County. ISAAC organizes to address local and regional social justice issues, currently including Youth Violence Prevention, Affordable Housing, Transportation, and Education and Early Childhood. ISAAC empowers member congregations and organizations to act on their shared values of human worth, dignity and justice by using a process of listening, training, and direct action. It is affiliated with the Gamaliel Foundation organizing institute.

Qualifications and essential job functions:

- Candidate must show demonstrated commitment to social justice.
- Prior organizing experience.
- Non-profit management skills such as financial management; managing budgets, supervising staff; planning and fund development; grant writing; excellent communication skills
- Candidate should be able to strengthen the organization through training, relationship building, and developing membership of the organization.
- Candidate must understand social justice in political and religious contexts as well as different congregations' cultures.
- Position requires developing alliances with businesses, unions, community groups, congregations and the ability to collaborate with community leaders, public officials, and funders.
- Looking for a candidate who values diversity and seeks to work with people from a wide variety of backgrounds and cultures.
- Willing and able to work flexible, long hours including some evenings and weekends.

Please email your resume, cover letter and a list of references to isaacsearchkzoo@gmail.com

Applications accepted until August 18 or until a strong candidate is found.

ISAAC is an Equal Opportunity Employer